

The Heimbach Group develops, produces and distributes consumer goods and services for paper production and other selected industries. Heimbach is wholly family-owned, employs approximately 1,250 people and generates sales of around 150 million euros. In addition to our headquarters in Düren, we have seven other production sites worldwide.

As part of a strategic realignment of our approach to hygiene papers, the Tissue-Core team is now looking to appoint a

Product Manager Tissue (m/f/d)

for the paper machine clothing business segment.

Your Tasks:

- Determination of technical design specifications in coordination with customers and sales department
- Prepare presentations and reports on the economic success of the product
- Close cooperation with product management, product development, sales and marketing
- Regular segment, life cycle and competition analyses to identify options for action
- Market observation and recognition of technical trends

Your Profile:

- You have a Bachelor / Master's degree in Paper Technology or a degree as an Industrial Foreman in Paper Production
- You are competent in the field of hygiene papers - ideally with knowledge of paper machine clothing
- You bring a strong hands-on mentality and are at ease and convincing during technical discussions
- You are flexible and willing to travel in Europe
- You have a good to very good command of both written and spoken English (Knowledge of German is an advantage)
- You are confident in handling the common MS Office programs

If you are interested in the position, please send an application stating your salary expectations and the earliest possible starting date to our following email address bewerbung@heimbach.com.

Heimbach GmbH
Christian Jolk
An Gut Nazareth 73
52353 Düren
☎ 0 24 21 / 802 451
www.heimbach.com

